Behind the Scenes of Winter Bees & Other Poems of the Cold Illustrators Rick Allen gives us a peek into his creative process

Our shop in the quiet of a winter evening. Rick works at night when the commotion of the day is over and he can focus without distraction. Our shop assistant Janelle at the press. First rough sketch for Snake's Lullaby. Obviously, Rick likes to begin with a very rough idea!

A few of the linoleum blocks (there were several) Rick cut for Snake's Lullaby; in the corner you can see some closer sketches. Once the individual blocks are printed, Rick does some hand coloring with gouache. Here you can see two versions of the brumating "snake ball" - one with bluer snakes on the right to show how torpid they become in the winter. The Big Brown Moose in various stages of printing and proofing, including the original linoleum block.
