Customer Reviews

This type of book can be great for younger readers who prefer non-fiction over fiction. Written at the third grade level, it's a very quick read that presents fun information about some of the more unusual plants that share our earth. The book should appeal to a range of ages and both genders. Should you be curious, the plants aren't all that disgusting. There's the 'strangler' fig tree, that grows around other trees, eventually killing them, and plants like stink weed. Enjoy. Pam T~(sample pages at blog)
